Temporary Interruption on McKinley Avenue Between Taylor Avenue and the Olin Circle

From: Lauren Leonard, Senior Project Manager

The City of St. Louis will be asphalt patching a trench in McKinley Avenue between Taylor Avenue and the Olin Circle tomorrow (Tuesday, August 25th). The trench is needed to provide new fiber connectivity to the 4515 McKinley Research Building.

The City has already stopped by and placed notification of closure on associated parking meters.

The operation will likely take one to two hours and will happen sometime between 7am and 4pm.

Whenever the work is going on, there may be some interruption/delay to the shuttles that drive down McKinley Avenue.
